

$12.6 million set for research

Government to help fund 80 solar energy projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government plans to spend $12.6 million to help fund research projects in 33 states in an effort to demonstrate how solar energy can be used to heat and cool commercial buildings.

The Energy Research and Development Administration said Tuesday it plans to partially fund 80 solar power projects. The average government aid to the projects will be about $156,000.

On the average, government cost-sharing funds will cover about 68 per cent of the total costs of the 80 projects.

Tuesday's announcement marked the second phase of a 5-year demonstration program intended to show the uses of solar energy in heating and cooling in buildings other than homes.

The first 32 commercial projects were selected in April 1976 and ERDA officials said they will list a third round of project this summer.

"This second series of commercial solar projects will take advantage of improvements in solar technology and also place specific emphasis on energy conservation techniques," said Dr. Henry H. Marvin, director of ERDA's solar energy division.

Offices, schools, hotels, fire and police stations, hospitals and libraries are included among the new projects.

The 80 proposals were selected from 307 submitted last fall. ERDA said it would begin negotiating agreements immediately and expects all contracts for the federal funds to be signed within three months.

Marvin said many of the projects will be equipped with ERDA monitoring equipment that will collect information on performance of the systems.

The following projects, listed by state, were selected for the solar demonstration program. Included is the estimated cost-share for ERDA.

IF YOUR tires are victims of misalignment, the Fayette County Auto Club would like to offer this helpful advice.

"Crooked wheels can cause your car to scrape its tires 100 feet sideways for every mile you travel forward," said club manager Mary Jo Hunter. . . "It is very similar to scuffing the surface of your tires with coarse sandpaper," she added. . .

The front end of a car needs attention if the tread is worn with feather edges, bumpy or uneven wear. . .

Misalignment can cost you a 50 per cent loss in tire life if left uncorrected. . . Other factors that play a part in tire life are tire imbalance, underinflation, worn shocks, steering and suspension parts. . .

Solon says computer projects hidden

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top Air Force officials are denying they tried to keep expensive computer development projects alive in defiance of congressional edict. One disbelieving senator says the denials are "gar-

Ohio's gardeners, farmers reeling from frost damage

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio farmers and gardeners who are reeling from the recent frost and freezing temperatures might not be out of the woods yet.

The National Weather Service says that over the past 10 years, the average date for the last frost of the season was May 7. In 1972, Ohio recorded freezing temperatures June 11.

Ohio farmers who still are evaluating the effects of record low temperatures April 29 were hit by more frost this week. A number of budding fruit trees in northern and central counties were hurt by the cold. And growers said the freeze will be noticed in fruit and vegetable prices this summer.

"What this week did remains to be seen, but it doesn't make much difference combined with the freeze two weeks ago," according to Lake County Agricultural Extension Agent William Cartee.

In his area, "Fruit crop losses will be 50 per cent and up for most. The profit picture is out of the window for the fruit grower this year," he said.

In Columbus, Harle Hicks of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service said he had received no reports Tuesday of damage from this week's cold.

Portage County Cooperative Extension Agent Jim Freed said the April frost combined with this week's has claimed about 98 per cent of the county's grapes. He estimated cherry and peach damage at 70 per cent and said the apple outlook is poor. "Fruit prices will be up if you can get it at all," he said.

In Mahoning County, agriculture officials said soft crops like squash and tomatoes are pretty well wiped out.

Some corn growers reported the cold had stunted their crops, but none apparently was serious.

The agriculture weather center at Purdue University said most field crops should recover from frost damage, but warned that winter wheat currently in the flowering stage could suffer some injury which might produce sterile heads, meaning reduced grain harvest.

Lake County fruit grower James Secor said, "There's not much we can do any more. Most of the apples, peaches and strawberries are already gone." Nearby producer Richard West said his apple crop is finished, but he has some peaches. About half of his strawberry crop is gone.

"This will mean the roadside markets won't have very much home-grown fruit and the vegetables will be higher-priced, at least at the start of the season," West said.

West, a lifetime nurseryman, summed it up: "We might as well laugh as cry...there's no use in getting angry, you just get frustrated. That's the weather...along with government supervision, the farmer has to contend with the weather."

defense appropriations subcommittee "the most disgraceful performance by any witness I've seen in my career in the Senate."

"Do you think we should sit here and give one-half ounce of credibility to the garbage you have given to the committee?" the Missouri lawmaker asked.

Edge, assistant Air Force chief of staff for communications and computer resources, clearly was stunned by Eagleton's charges, but refused to comment. He won a vote of confidence, however, from Gen. David Jones, Air Force chief of staff.

Jones called Edge a man with "a reputation for veracity" in "a long and honorable career."

The subcommittee planned further testimony on the issue today. It arranged to hear from Pentagon analysts who reported last year that computer development programs abolished by Congress in 1975 apparently still existed.

Two years ago, the Air Force was ordered to re-evaluate its computer projects to determine which were "mission essential" or non-"differrable," meaning vital to continuing operations.

But documents leaked by Pentagon sources to congressional investigators last month started an inquiry into whether these guidelines had been applied improperly by Air Force officials to keep virtually all former programs in existence.

The over-all cost of the computer programs is estimated at $803 million, slightly less than a 1975 estimate. But the final figure could be as much as $44 million more, officials said.

Of special interest to investigators were notes handwritten by Edge last January in which he suggested that detailed summaries of the Air Force projects not be furnished to congressional committee chairmen because they probably wouldn't read or understand them.

The notes were key elements in arousing suspicions by congressional investigators that the Air Force was concealing its plans.

Edge said his notes were "memory joggers written to myself," and denied they implied any attempt to deceive Congress.

But Eagleton said, "I think your motive from the beginning was to deceive the Congress and you are continuing to do it, with malice aforethought."

READY FOR THE MASHER — A rusted truck body is lowered into a metal compactor at a wreckage yard located at the east end of Gregg Street. Cleanup efforts at the junkyard, which has been piling up useless vehicles and scrap metal for nearly 50 years, are nearing completion. The vehicle bodies are flattened and hauled off to be melted for reuse.

At two local junk yards

Cleanup efforts nearing completion

Cleanup efforts at two large Washington C.H. junk yards are nearing completion.

Junked cars and scrap metal are being removed from the Washington Wrecking Yard on Columbus Avenue and the wreckage yard at the east end of Gregg Street. Both junk yards were owned by the late Henry Frydman.

The various types of junk material at both locations are being hauled to Dayton by relatives of the former owner, who died last summer. The cleanup efforts began last fall, but the harsh winter weather delayed removal efforts until this spring.

On Monday, the last rusted vehicle body was crushed by work crews and loaded on a semi tractor-trailer truck at the Gregg Street site.

During the past several weeks nearly 400 wrecked vehicles have been salvaged from the junk yard and shipped out for scrap metal. A large crane was employed to place the vehicles into an hydraulic compactor that quickly flattened the metal bodies.

Although all of the junked and ancient vehicles have been removed, there is still plenty of salvagable metal to be cleared at the Gregg Street site. Work crews are expected to complete the work before June.

All the scrap metal has already been removed from the Columbus Avenue site. Only ground cleanup efforts remain.

According to a former owner's daughter, Mrs. Helen Warfield, both junkyards have been piling up auto parts and vehicle bodies since the 1930s.

Frydman, a native of Poland and a prisoner in a German concentration camp for seven years during World War II, purchased both junkyards several years ago from Howard Brown.

EX-TRUCK LOADED — The truck, which was being lowered into the metal compactor pictured above, is loaded onto a semi tractor-trailer rig for shipment to Dayton. Hundreds of ancient vehicles have been crushed in recent weeks as cleanup efforts continue at the Gregg Street wreckage yard.

Lottery chief eyes 'numbers' game

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ohio Lottery Director Gerald Patronite says the lottery's success story may have some unhappy chapters unless a "numbers game" is adopted.

Lottery commissioners approved action on a third instant game and new 50-cent and $1 dollar games Tuesday but said nothing about following the lead of other states that have adopted daily numbers games. In a numbers game the players pick three numbers. Anyone matching the numbers drawn daily by the operators wins.

In an interview following the commissioners' meeting, Patronite said he hopes the commissioners will adopt a numbers game, and soon.

"If it doesn't come shortly," he said, "Ohio is going to sink to last among state lotteries, which is where we were when I took over."

He said the Ohio lottery took in $108 million the first year, $138 last year, when he became director, "and we should top $168 million this year."

But without a numbers game, which he said would stabilize income, "instead of steady revenue we will have dwindling revenue."

Latest figures compiled by the lottery staff show that daily numbers games have given a big boost to state lotteries in Maryland, New Jersey, Ontario and Quebec.

In Maryland, sales in the daily numbers game jumped from $1 million the first week to $3.8 million in the 35th week.

Cathedral a nuisance?

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — The Department of Industrial Relations has taken evangelist Leroy Jenkins to court, asking that his Holy Hill Cathedral be declared a public nuisance.

The attorney general's office filed suit Tuesday in behalf of the industrial relations department's division of factory and building inspection.

The suit asks that Delaware County Common Pleas Court order the cathedral be vacated until complete building plans are approved by the state.

The suit also asks that the cathedral be torn down if Jenkins does not comply with the court action.

The division claims the original cathedral structure was built contrary to approved plans and Ohio's building code.

No court date was set for a hearing of the suit. Jenkins was out of town and could not be reached for comment.

Heart attack claims Joan Crawford

NEW YORK (AP) — She portrayed the flaming youth of the 1920s, then went on to become as great an all-around actress as the movie industry has ever seen. Academy Award winner Joan Crawford is dead at the age of 69.

The actress was claimed by a heart attack Tuesday in the bedroom of her Manhattan apartment. She had not been ill and had no history of cardiac trouble.

An aura of glamor surrounded her throughout her career, and she conformed to that image, once confessing that "if I'd ever been seen on the Sunset strip with bare feet and my hair uncoiffed, I would have killed myself."

"She believed in the Hollywood legend, and she was a creature of it," said George Cukor, who directed her in three of her 80 films.

"She represented the best in the golden period of Hollywood. She started as a personality girl, a dancing flapper, and made herself into an excellent actress."

Funeral services were yet to be arranged. Miss Crawford's attorney, Edward Cowen, said her wish to be cremated would be carried out.

In recent years, Miss Crawford had been in virtual retirement, both as a performer and as a director of and ambassador-at-large for the Pepsi-Cola Co. She became the company's first woman director in 1959 upon the death of her fourth husband, Pepsi board chairman Alfred Steele.

Miss Crawford was born Lucille LeSueur on March 23, 1908, in San Antonio, Texas, in what she described as "a drab little place on the wrong side of the tracks."

Her parents were divorced a few weeks after her birth and her mother married an Oklahoma theater owner. When touring road companies played there, Joan's blue eyes widened in envy and she promised herself to become a dancer.

"I never went beyond the sixth grade," she said. "I began working when I was nine years old. Scrubbing floors. My high school record was forged so I could attend Stephens College, but when I got to classes I realized I wasn't prepared."

Judge lifts ban on SST landings

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge ruled today that a ban on landings of the supersonic Concorde jetliners at Kennedy airport was illegal.

U.S. Dist. Judge Milton Pollack granted a request by British Airways and Air France to lift the temporary ban ordered by the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey.

But the judge did not order that the planes immediately be allowed to start landing at Kennedy Airport.

The Port Authority had temporarily banned the fast but noisy plane from landing at Kennedy pending evaluation of noise, vibration and pollution data.

The Concorde has been flying into Dulles International Airport outside Washington since May 1976 under an order from former U.S. Transportation Secretary William Coleman for a 16-month test.

Concorde interests went to court to overturn the Port Authority ban here, claiming federal commitments preempted the powers of the regional agency.

A Port Authority spokesman said after announcement of the decision that the agency would have no comment until lawyers studied the ruling and decided whether to appeal.

The Port Authority is a bistate agency which owns and operates major airports and other transportation facilities in the New York City-northern New Jersey area.

Concorde landings at Kennedy have been strongly opposed by residents of Queens and Nassau counties who live near the airport. Several weeks ago they staged a demonstration attempting to tie up auto traffic at Kennedy to show their opposition.

"We're going to be inconvenienced for the rest of our lives if they let that plane come in," said Saul Ginsberg, one of the anti-Concorde leaders.

The lucrative route to New York is crucial to British Airways and Air France, who concede losing $54 million on the Concorde in the first year of the SST's operations.

The jet, which was developed jointly by the British and French, is capable of crossing the Atlantic Ocean in less than four hours. It carries 100 passengers.

Ohio enters laetrile struggle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's lawmakers may soon get involved in the highly emotional controversy over use of the substance laetrile as a treatment for cancer.

Rep. Patrick A. Sweeney, D-6 Cleveland, said he would introduce today his previously announced bill which would have Ohio join Alaska, Florida and Indiana in legalizing laetrile for such treatments.

Sweeney said he was aware that the current national controversy would spill over into Ohio's legislative halls as a result of his bill, but he feels "strongly" that doctors and patients should be permitted to agree mutually upon using the substance.

Average American's pay up 9.1 per cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you fit the government's description of an average American, your income increased by 9.1 per cent last year, and you gained a step on inflation.

The Commerce Department reported Tuesday that per capita income jumped from $5,903 in 1975 to $6,441 in 1976. The government measured inflation for the same 12 months at 4.8 per cent.

Residents of Hawaii, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota lost ground to inflation during the year, the government said. But elsewhere the news for consumers was good.

The highest per capita income in the nation was the $10,178 in Alaska. The lowest was $4,575 in Mississippi.

The government defines personal income as wages and salaries, interest, dividends and Social Security benefits.

Meanwhile, a second set of figures showed Americans are spending increasing portions of their money on transportation.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said American families spent more money in 1973 on transportation than they did on food.

Transportation accounted for 21 per cent of family spending in 1973, compared with 15 per cent in 1960-1961. Food, which accounted for 20.1 per cent of spending in 1973, took 24.4 per cent of a family's money in 1960-1961, the government said.

A spokesman said the figures do not reflect fully higher gasoline prices, which began a sharp rise in late 1973 with the Arab oil embargo.

In other economic developments Tuesday:

—The Commerce Department said retail stores reported sales of about $59.4 billion during April, virtually the same amount as the month before. The figure, adjusted for seasonal variations and trading day differences, was 11 per cent higher than in April, 1975.

—The House Banking Committee voted 36-1 to extend the Council on Wage and Price Stability for two years. Top administration economists, urging the extension, said the council would be assigned new duties to provide early warnings of problems that could heighten inflation.

Admitted polygamist slain by 2 women

MURRAY, Utah (AP) — Two dark-haired, heavy-set women in their 20s walked into an office and calmly shot to death a surgeon who claimed to have at least six wives and 40 children, police said.

Dr. Rulon Allred, 71, a neuropathic surgeon and admitted polygamist, died Tuesday in his office in this Salt Lake City suburb. Police said seven shots were fired from two handguns.

Police Sgt. Paul Forbes said several persons, including members of Allred's staff, were in the doctor's waiting room when the women entered sometime after 4:45 p.m.

Officials said they were told the patients and nurses heard several shots and then saw two women leave and walk around a nearby home.

No one else was injured and no arrests were made, police said.

Police said they questioned members of Allred's large family.

Authorities declined officially to identify Allred as the victim. But several officers, neighbors and Allred's landlady confirmed he was killed.

Two years ago, The Associated Press interviewed Allred for a story about polygamists, but he was not named in the story at his request.

In that interview, Allred said members of his family were among 35,000 Fundamentalist Mormons. He and other polygamists were excommunicated from the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) for polygamy, which the church banned in the late 1800s.

Allred had taken the reporter to visit three of his wives in separate Salt Lake City homes. He said then he was talking openly about polygamy partly because of two murders in Mexico linked with the polygamist Church of the First Born in the Fullness of Time.

Stock list turns mixed

NEW YORK (AP) —The stock market was mixed in early trading today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off .25 at 935.89 in the early going but gainers outnumbered losers by a tiny fraction.

Analysts said an apparently new policy by the Federal Reserve to tighten credit might work against a further extension of Tuesday's moderate gains.

The market largely failed to react to that news in a technical rally Tuesday but analysts noted some defensive action near the close.

On Tuesday the Dow industrial average gained 3.05 to 936.14, recouping some of Monday's loss of 3.65.

Gainers outnumbered losers by a margin of about 3-2 on the NYSE.

Big Board volume reached 21.09 million shares after trading on Monday had set a low for the year of 15.23 million shares.

The NYSE's composite index gained .15 to 54.30.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .08 at 114.25.

Pennsylvania, which launched a numbers game just a few weeks ago, showed sales of $2.6 million in the first week of May.

Patronite said two of the five Ohio commissioners favor adoption of a daily numbers game, and he hopes the majority of the commission comes around to his view since "it takes from six months to a year to implement the game."

With the Instant II game selling at a faster-than-expected rate, the commissioners got things rolling for Instant III, telling the contractor, Mathematica of Princeton, N.J., to plan on having tickets ready to sell by Aug. 23. Mathematica won the contract for that game on a bid of about $870,000.

The commissioners also were told that the next millionaire drawing will be at the Ohio Theater in Columbus July 21.

Catch up with level billing

No one needs to remind you how cold it was this past winter. In fact, it was the coldest winter Ohio has experienced in the last 100 years. Colder temperatures mean higher gas and electric bills. DP&L recognizes this, and we are offering a six-month Level Billing plan to help ease the impact for those customers who are behind in their utility bills. Here's how it works: Your unpaid balance will be spread over a period of six months. The amount currently owing and your anticipated billing through October will be divided by six beginning with your May bill.

To get started . . . just pay the amount listed on your statement for "Level Bill." This will automatically put you on the road to being caught up by your gas and electric bill by October. Remember . . . participation in Level Billing protects your credit rating and prevents further collection action. Also, this plan is offered at no cost to you. You still pay only for the service you use. Over 78 percent of our customers have already enjoyed the convenience of Level Billing. Check your May bill for further details!

Out after tuna again

It is good news that the American tuna fleet has put to sea again after a shutdown since mid-February. The fishermen had made their point: they find the legal limit on the number of porpoises that may be killed in fleet operations unrealistically low. Nothing would be gained by prolonging the stay-in-port, which has had severe economic consequences not only for the fleet but for San Diego and other affected communities.

The boat owners and environmentalists are still at loggerheads. The compromise plan okayed by industry officials came a cropper when a coalition of environmental groups balked at a proposed increase in the allowable porpoise kill. The law now sets 59,050 as the limit. The compromise plan would have permitted killing 78,000 this year and the same number next year.

This is a classic case of the impasse so often seen between economic interests and environmental values. We find ourselves torn between the contending sides, finding merit in the position of each.

We are impressed by the fishermen's efforts to perfect equipment and techniques that will in time greatly reduce the porpoise kill. At the same time, we are worried by the environmentalists' claims that if the kill rate is not held down stringently the porpoises will soon be decimated. One point seems worth making: though the fleet is on short rations for awhile under present curbs on the porpoise kill, the alternative may be to risk making these winsome sea mammals an endangered species.

There is still some hope for a workable compromise: Sen. Alan Cranston reports a "good faith spirit on both sides". Meanwhile, the fleet's at sea, and in a few weeks there'll be work at the canneries again.

A WORD EDGEWISE...By John P. Roche

Why bail out our foes?

In an almost medieval fashion, we occupy our home on probation, on sufferance. Sovereignty in fact is exercised by two Himalayan cats - Shamus, Earl of Everest, and his consort Mariah. We have been their tenants for some 11 years, and I have learned a good deal about international affairs from their behavior. Last week, for example, Mariah was sunning herself in the driveway, apparently asleep, when suddenly she literally rocketed to the roof of a car. Moments later a dog appeared, cased out the situation and left.

In contrast, I have seen her napping untroubled on the flagstones when a huge Newfoundland ambled up and lay down beside her. And there is a rucious spaniel who appears from time to time, runs a circle or two around her and yaps: Mariah yawns and rolls over. Why these strangely divergent reactions? Answer: she is equipped with - to employ its World War II name - "IFF Radar." She instinctively identifies Friends and Foes, and reacts accordingly.

The more I learn about our negotiations with Hanoi and Havana, the more I wish Mariah was handling them. We seem to have lost our capacity to distinguish friend from foe. Begin with the objective situations in Vietnam and Cuba: both are bankrupt totalitarian countries desperately in need of economic and technical assistance. Both are dedicated opponents of human rights and, of course, of the United States. Both are attempting to "normalize" relations with the United States in hopes we will bail them out.

No one can blame them for trying to roll a drunk, but a serious case can be made against our getting stoned. As suggested here, when Castro pulls his army out of Africa and the Middle East its members could make a significant contribution to Cuba's gross domestic product. Moreover, a democratization of Cuba could lead to the return of 700,000 exiles - mostly middle class technicians and artisans. On a population base of roughly 8 million, they could provide quite an economic stimulus.

But democratization could create problems for the Caudillo. Senator George McGovern told the Havana periodical "Bohemia" that Fidel "is one of the most important leaders in the world today," but the exiles - who have IFF - are sceptics. McGovern may be a nice man, but they question his view that Castro has successfully guaranteed fundamental rights in Cuba. McGovern does not run the DGI, Fidel's KGB-trained secret police. So exchange ambassadors, but let Moscow pick up Fidel's tab.

Now to the American-Vietnamese negotiations in Paris, where Mariah would certainly be on the roof of a Renault. Asst. Secretary of State Richard Holbrooke struck me as a decent guy when I knew him in Vietnam, but to put him in the ring with a veteran cutthroat like Vietnam's Deputy Foreign Minister Pham Hien is absurd. You see, Holbrooke feels guilty about our Vietnam commitment. I feel guilty about it too, but for different reasons: 1) we botched it; and 2) we then abandoned 16 million South Vietnamese to savage totalitarians.

In the words of an impartial witness, "Now, after the Communist victory, the South Vietnamese realize they lost a precious thing. They realize the intervention of the United States was right. Only its manner was debatable. Now they would like substantial military help to regain that freedom." Doubtless some CIA stooge?

No, alas, 10 years late, a leader of the anti-Thieu forces in Saigon learned there can be things worse than war. Nguyen Kong Hoan, a former Saigon deputy and leader of the anti-Thieu peace group, who was rewarded with a place in the new unified Hanoi legislature, managed to escape and boggled the minds of the anti-war partisans here with these sentiments. For some odd reason, his remarks received little media coverage.

Perhaps we should ship Nguyen Kong Hoan to Paris to advise Holbrooke, but at the moment an utterly unfazed Hanoi delegation is simply demanding that we live up to our end of a secret 1973 bargain and provide Vietnam with $4.7 billion for "reconstruction." (In a notable compromise they have backed away from the word "reparations.") Of this two things can be said: first, President Nixon had no right to make the commitment; and second, if he had it would be worthless. In blunt terms, the $4.7 billion was meant as a bribe to Hanoi to honor the 1973 "peace" agreement.

Two years ago the massive conventional invasion of South Vietnam taught us how seriously they took their obligations under the Paris accord. Now they have the gall to demand payment for breach of contract! Their new scenario: we recognize them, allow them into the U.N., and fork over billions in return for some more caskets and good will. The first two are acceptable, but please, Mr. President, if you must do penance, send them $4.7 billion - in Confederate money.

"SOMEDAY, SON, YOU CAN TELL YOUR CHILDREN THAT YOU RODE IN A GASGUZZLER."

Competency tests for students rapped

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Washington, D.C. researcher says a trend in many states toward requiring competency tests for public school students is a mistake.

"It's as if people think by passing state laws we can cause reading test scores to rise, but the laws don't offer any new means of training students, nor any secrets of learning," said Arthur Wise, a visiting specialist with the Educational Policy Research Institute.

"What these laws do is lead people to think something is being done about learning problems when nothing is."

Wise said that school systems which have competency tests tend to spend too much time training children to score high on the tests and deprive them of other aspects of education.

The educator was one of several speakers at a two-day Department of Education-sponsored conference called "Back to Basics?" About 500 teachers and administrators gathered to discuss the growing demand for a return to traditional instruction in reading, writing and arithmetic.

School legislators believe that schools are not doing a good enough job teaching children to read and write," Wise said. "They think good things will come by passing laws. But learning and teaching do not improve by passing laws."

Teaching is a craft and learning is not achieved by prescribing certain steps a teacher must take, Wise said. Methods vary with the students, he said.

The Ohio House has allocated $50,000 in the 1977-79 state budget to establish a commission on minimum competency examinations. If the allocation remains in the Senate-passed version of the budget, the commission would be set up to study the desirability of competency tests. A separate bill would be necessary before such testing could be a reality.

"I think this says something about the citizenry and the kind of aspirations we now have for our schools," Wise said. "We used to talk in grand terms about student fulfillment and the school as a mechanism for social mobility within the socioeconomic system. The concentration on basic competency is much narrower."

Work production more than doubled between 1947 and 1974, according to an American Council of Life Insurance report. The greatest increase, the report said, was in agriculture, where output per man-hour more than quadrupled.

Dear Abby:

Let Tina contend with dirty old boss

DEAR ABBY: My beautiful 27-year-old daughter (I'll call her Tina) is divorcing her husband. She has two small children to support and has taken a job as secretary to an elderly man who has an office in his home. He's married, but his wife is very deaf.

Tina has told me that her boss has made improper suggestions to her. She says he's never touched her, but he has propositioned her several times. She says she kids him out of it by pretending she thinks he's only joking, but she knows he's not. (He gave her a generous cash gift last Christmas, and she hadn't even worked for him a year.)

I would like to go to this man and tell him how rotten I think he is by degrading my lovely daughter with his insulting offers, but Tina has forbidden me to interfere.

I am a widow, but I would rather mortgage my home than see my daughter work for this animal. She has applied for work elsewhere, but must work in the meantime because she needs the money. Also, she needs good references for another job, and if she tells him off, he may not give them to her.

I am heartsick knowing that my lovely daughter goes to this dirty old man's home every day, knowing what he has in mind.

Should I take matters into my own hands?

HEARTSICK MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: No. Although I know you mean well, let Tina handle it. She seems well able to.

DEAR ABBY: I am 10 years old, and I am no good in school. Everything is hard because I hate to study. My mother says if I don't do better in school, I can't go to ballet camp this summer. Abby, I love ballet but I hate to study.

What should I do?

DEAR LOVES: If you want to go to ballet camp, you'd better get on your toes. And right now!

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is planning marriage soon. She told me last week that after she's married, I should not drop in and visit her without calling first.

Abby, I was knocked off my feet. The next day I told my younger daughter about it, and she laughed and said, "Oh, Mom, she was just kidding." That evening the younger one asked her sister right in front of me if she was kidding, or did she really mean it. The one who's getting married said, "Of course I mean it, and that goes for the whole family."

Now we are all shocked. Abby, is this something new? Since when can't parents and brothers and sisters drop in on each other without calling first? What is your opinion?

SHOCKED

DEAR SHOCKED: Some people do not want unexpected drop-in-type visitors-including family members-which is their right.

And though it sounds unfriendly, it takes a mature woman to let her family know how she feels about such things.

High court plans recess

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Supreme Court heard the last oral arguments of the winter session Tuesday as the justices began clearing their calendar for the upcoming summer recess.

The end of arguments does not mean the justices will not consider cases between now and the recess but that attorneys will not be back before the bench until next September. The seven-member panel will continue to make decisions about cases it will hear and make rulings on cases already heard. The court began the current session last January.

Some of the more notable decisions of the session include a ruling on the fluoridation of Cincinnati drinking water and the ease with which police may receive a search warrant.

In the Cincinnati water case, a group of citizens fighting fluoridation were unsuccessful in having the court overturn an order by the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency that the water be treated.

The justices, in a 5-2 decision, said that arguments that fluoridation abridges religious freedom and the right to equal protection should have been settled in lower court arguments and not have been raised for the first time before the court.

The court had already refused to hear a similar case and said in the most recent one that the citizens should have taken their appeal to the Ohio Environmental Board of Review to seek a reversal of the EPA order.

The justices noted, however, that the citizens' charge that fluoride was a cancer-causing agent was disturbing but without sufficient substantiation.

The ruling on search warrant issuance also came out of a Cincinnati case where police searched an apartment in 1974 and discovered narcotics.

The evidence was used to convict Larry Gill, the resident of the apartment, on charges of illegal possession of narcotics and possession for sale of narcotics.

Gill took the case to the appellate court and won a reversal. The Supreme Court agreed, saying that issuance of a search warrant requires that the judge decide if there is probable cause to believe criminal activity has taken place on the premises.

The justices ruled 6-1 that a policeman may not get a search warrant simply because an informant says crimes are being committed.

The court also affirmed its directions on access to state records. In that case a beauty supply firm had sought a list of all licensed beauty operators and beauty parlors in the state. The Board of Cosmetology refused to supply the list at the supply firm's expense saying it was against state policy to supply such mailing lists.

The court ruled the board acted contrary to open records rulings saying any record a public agency is required to keep must be open for inspection and duplication.

The high court also has ruled that Cincinnati Bell Telephone Co. should be allowed to continue charging its customers 20 cents for each directory assistance call a month above a limit of three free calls. The system is the fairest to all customers, the court ruled.

Maroscher joins Ohio Chamber

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Udo W. Maroscher will join the staff of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce as assistant membership director.

Maroscher's main responsibilities will be to assist small businesses with legislative and regulatory representation and to initiate membership promotion for middle size corporations, said the chamber's executive vice president Norman H. Baker.

Baker said the Columbus resident has been in business management for several years.

SHALL WE DANCE? Students and their dates are shown dancing at the 1977 Junior-Senior Prom held Saturday in the MTSH gymnasium.

Junior-Senior Prom is held in Miami Trace High gymnasium

"We May Never Pass This Way Again," was the theme for the 1977 Miami Trace High School Junior-Senior Prom held Saturday from 8 to 11:30 p.m. in the school gymnasium.

John Bakenhester and Terri Warnock were crowned the King and Queen for 1977, and the Prince and Princess were Jim Stuckey and Gail Fitzpatrick. Both girls were presented flowers, and crowned with tiaras. The Royalty was announced by Kevin Stockwell, Junior Class president.

Upon entering the gymnasium students and their dates walked through an archway decorated with hearts and yellow roses. To enter the dance floor, the couples passed over a gleaming white bridge, where wishing wells, water falls and water mills were prevalent. The star-covered sky and pale blue lights set a romantic atmosphere for the evening.

Music for the prom was provided by the band "Clockwork."

Parents of the Junior Class members served refreshments. It proved to be a memorable evening for all who attended. Mr. and Mrs. William Sowash were the prom advisors.

Miss Linda Dale Schnittke became the bride of Thomas David Patrick April 16. The Rev. Orville Wilson of West Lafayette, performed the marriage ceremony at 2:30 p.m. in the First United Church in Uhrichsville, for the daughter of Mrs. Ruth Schnittke, and the late Dale Schnittke of Uhrichsville, and the son of Mrs. Marie Patrick and the late Irvin Patrick of 903 Millwood Ave., Washington C.H.

Pompon daisies, gladioli and baby's breath enhanced the altar of the church for the ceremony.

Lester Roth, uncle of the bride, escorted Linda to the altar, and gave her in marriage on behalf of her parents. The bride wore a white polyester over taffeta gown, with square neckline edged in tiny lace, and long full sleeves. The full skirt fell into a chapel-length train edged in a double flounce. Her chapel-length veil held by a Juliet headpiece, was also edged in lace. She wore a gold cross borrowed from her mother and carried her grandmother's ring in a large colonial bouquet of daisies, peach roses, ivy and baby's breath.

Mrs. Elizabeth Barrett, sister of the bride from Dennison, was the matron of honor. She wore a pale blue polyester over taffeta gown with wide flounce pulled up to a bustle in the back. The bridesmaids, Elizabeth (Jean) Walker of Columbus, a friend of the couple, Dorothy Long, a cousin of the bride from New Philadelphia and Barbara Rowe, friend of the bride from Columbus, were attired in gowns styled like the matron of honor, except in peach, mint green and yellow respectively.

Kim Beckley of Dennison, was the flower girl, and Scott Barrett, nephew of the bride, was the ring bearer.

Robert Patrick uncle of the groom of Ashville, served as best man for his nephew. Seating the wedding guests were R. Steven Crabtree and William Sexten, friends of the groom from Washington C.H., and Aubrey (Jack) Jackson, friend of the groom from Columbus.

Mrs. Schnittke chose for her daughter's wedding a dusty pink gown of Quiana knit and she wore a corsage of multi-colored pompon daisies. Mrs. Patrick, the bridegroom's mother, wore a blue and beige soft printed gown with a corsage of white pompon daisies.

A reception for the couple followed the ceremony in the church Fellowship Hall and carried out the color scheme of the wedding. Terri Fee of Celveland, registered the guests, and serving at the reception were Mrs. Deborah Kagaor, Mrs. Debra Pulley, Mrs. Molly Ueltschy, Mrs. Gale Braun, and Miss Marjorie Hensel, all friends of the bride.

A dinner was held following rehearsal the evening preceding the wedding in Holiday Inn.

The couple went to Gatlinburg, Tenn., for their honeymoon, and are now residing at 34 E. South St., Ashville. The new Mrs. Patrick, a 1973 graduate of Claymont High School, and a 1976 graduate of the Grant Hospital School of Nursing, is a registered nurse at Grant Hospital, Columbus.

'Sounds of Spring' theme for final concert

Evening of music offered at MT

By KATHY JENKINS
On Thursday, at 7:30 p.m., the Miami Trace Vocal Department will present its last concert of the 1976-77 season. The spring concert will follow the theme "The Sounds of Spring". Vocal director, Richard Glass, will conduct the concert chorus, symphonic chorus, freshman chorus, Folksingers group and girl's chorus in various musical numbers.

The freshman chorus is made up of ninth-grade girls and boys who have an interest in music. For their part in the entertainment, the chorus will perform "Brighten Up My Soul With Sunshine", "Time in a Bottle", and the ever-popular "I'll Never Fall in Love Again."

Upperclassmen who wish to further develop their musical abilities and sing popular music are able to join the concert chorus. They will be singing a medley of hits made famous by The Carpenters, and the song "The Way we Were."

The most active performing group at Miami Trace is the Folksingers. They sing anything from popular tunes to folk songs and a little bit of classical music. The Folksingers will be performing "Rhythm of Life", "Scarborough Fair-Canticle", "In a Shanty in Old Shanty Town", "I Believe" and "You and Me Against The World."

The symphonic choir is a choir for talented upperclassmen who strive to learn to perfect the sound of a large choral body. It is the choir that competes at contests each year. During the concert, the symphonic choir will perform two of three contest pieces, "Adoramus Te" and "How Excellent is Thy Name" as well as "Morning Has Broken," "One by One, People Come, Sing Together," "All it Takes is Love," "Once in Love With Amy," "Speak Up" and the traditional "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

The girl's chorus is a new idea this year. It consists of the girls in symphonic choir and Folksingers. They will be singing "It's A Grand Night for Singing" from the musical "State Fair," and "As Long As He Needs Me" from the musical production of "Oliver."

A special presentation will be given by a group of students who attended the Ohio Wesleyan Choir Festival for high school students. The students who participated in the 1000-voice Festival Choir were Tammy Payton, Kathy Junk, Cindi Grover, Michelle Creed, Julie Fetter, Mark Hurtt, Jeff Satterfield, Allen Johnson, Don Eyre, Terry Thompson and Cheryl Blue. Kathy Edwards and Kathi Jenkins were chosen by audition to participate in a 90-voice honors choir. This group will be singing "There is A Balm in Gilead" under the direction of Mr. Glass.

The public is cordially invited to attend this evening of musical entertainment and listen to the sounds of spring. A small charge of $1 for adults and 50 cents for students will be requested to help defray the expenses of running a successful music department.

Concerning World Affairs Institute

Rotary hears reports from students

Washington C.H. Rotary Club members Tuesday received reports from three of four students who attended the annual World Affairs Institute in Cincinnati recently.

More than 1,000 high school students from a three-state area attended the conference which is sponsored annually by the Cincinnati Rotary Club.

Delegates sponsored by the Washington C.H. Rotary Club were Nancy Marchant and John Walker, of Washington Senior High School, and Steve Hendricks and Jane Kearney, of Miami Trace High School. Miss Kearney was ill and was unable to attend Tuesday's Rotary Club meeting to assist in the presentation of reports.

The energy crisis was the topic discussed at this year's conference. Speakers representing the Organization of Petroleum Export Countries (OPEC), India, the Exxon Oil Co., and the International Energy Agency in Paris, France, were featured.

The OPEC nations produce approximately 15 of the 30 million barrels of crude oil used in the U.S. per day.

Before becoming one of the leading sources for oil, the OPEC nations were not involved in oil price decisions. But that has now changed.

One of the top executives in the Exxon Oil Co. told the delegates that the company sells five million barrels of oil per day, and that approximately two-thirds of the amount is sold to the U.S.

Because of a continuing shortage of oil resources, he said the company is involved in more oil exploration projects and searching for alternate sources of energy. He said the U.S. is the only nation where private companies are required to finance oil exploration projects.

The problems of underdeveloped nations in relation to the energy crisis were outlined by a diplomat from India. He said he feared a future conflict between the rich and poor nations. He said the OPEC nations are becoming so powerful that even Russia will soon be forced to import oil.

Judge and Mrs. Rollo Marchant accompanied the students to the conference.

The regular weekly luncheon meeting was conducted by club president Dr. George H. Pommert. The program was arranged by Charles W. (Bud) Mustine.

During the meeting held in the Country Club, Dr. Pommert announced that the rental fee on Wilson Field has not been increased in the 22-year history of the Little League program sponsored by the Rotary Club.

Dr. Pommert said increased taxes and increases in liability insurance policies carried by the property owners forced the rental increase from $300 to $1,000 to cover expenses.

Two new members were accepted during the meeting. They were Gary Stout, a Jeffersonville attorney, and Gary D. Smith, a Washington C.H. attorney. Stout was sponsored by Dr. Leroy Davis and Smith by John Lachat.

Student guests were Mike Lowry of Miami Trace High School and John Walker of Washington Senior High School. Rowland LeMaster was a guest with Paul Crosby and Dan Drake of Wilmington was a visiting Rotarian.

Bizarre twist to Nixon's story

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the incredible archives of Richard M. Nixon, there are few items so bizarre as his story of the day he told his speechwriter to decide whether he should resign the presidency.

The speechwriter recalls the episode just as Nixon recounted it in the latest of his tapes, this one made for television.

Raymond K. Price Jr. said he found it fantastic, too. It is not the normal work of presidential speechwriters to decide what their bosses should do, only how they should sound.

And it defies belief to think that Nixon would have read himself out of office even if the line had been there.

Speechwriters are supposed to be more invisible than ghostwriters, heard and not seen. President Carter has a stable of five speechwriters to draft his addresses. It is not a very busy shop. Carter turns to his wordsmiths on major addresses, but he tends to speak off the cuff, or from sketchy notes, on other occasions.

In Nixon's time, the White House speechwriters cranked out prose for almost every event. Prose, and more, by Nixon's account.

It was April 29, 1973, he was about to fire H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, and Price came in with the final draft of his speech.

"And I said to him, 'Ray,' I said, 'if you think I oughta resign,' I said, 'put that in, too, because I feel responsible.' Even though I did not feel that I had, ah, engaged in these activities consciously

"Well, he didn't put it in. And, ah, I must say that at that time, I seriously considered whether I shouldn't resign."

Price, astounded at the suggestion, never really considered writing such a line into the speech. "You have to remember that it was a very emotional time," he says now.

Nixon survived another 15 months in office before announcing, in a speech crafted by Ray Price, that he would resign on Aug. 9, 1974.

None of this is to suggest that Nixon would have quit earlier if he'd found the line in his speech text. Ehrlichman says that when he was being fired, Nixon gave no hint that he had thought of resigning.

And a president who really wants to stand aside doesn't need a speechwriter. When Lyndon B. Johnson announced that he would not run again in 1968, he read from a brief statement he'd had in his pocket for months. Johnson wrote it himself, with the help of his wife and his press secretary, George Christian.

School group backs collective bargaining

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Spokesmen for Ohio's high school and elementary school principals Tuesday night urged approval of a major bill establishing collective bargaining procedures for public employees.

Also supporting the legislation at a crowded hearing of the Senate Commerce and Labor Committee were spokesmen for police and firemen serving 90 communities in seven northern Ohio counties, and the 35,000-member Ohio Civil Service Employees Association (OCSEA).

Representatives of the separate associations for elementary and secondary school principals said generally that the legislation is long overdue. They said principals welcome it because currently they have no job protection such as multi-year contracts given superintendents and teachers.

Richard Reese of Parma, representing the Northern Ohio Police and Firemen's Benevolent Association, said police and firemen have been made victims of politically motivated mayors and other elected employers whose main concern is distributing public monies in such a way as to ensure their reelection. "They want to put one project in this ward, that project in another, and do not care whether police and firemen receive a decent wage," he said.

In his own hometown of Parma, he said beginning police officers receive a starting salary of a little more than $11,000 a year—"not enough to get along, if you have a family."

Sen. Thomas A. Van Meter, R-19 Ashland, said he wonders how many other people beginning their careers earn $11,000 at the start. Reese responded, "You should go over to the Chevrolet plant and ask that question."

Carter trip personal success

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's trip to Europe touched off "a tangle of excitement" among U.S. allies and helped restore American moral leadership in the world, says the top White House foreign policy adviser.

Carter returned to the White House Tuesday night from a five-day trip to London and Geneva where, for the first time, he dealt with his principal allies on knotty questions ranging from economic recovery to discouragement of nuclear proliferation.

The President ended his trip by telling a NATO meeting in London that the alliance must make "high priority improvements" in its forces because the Communists are building an offensive force in Europe.

Zbigniew Brzezinski, the President's assistant for national security affairs, a position once claimed by Henry Kissinger, told reporters during the homeward voyage aboard Air Force One that Carter excited Europeans for a variety of reasons.

"I think he represents something fresh. I think people want to associate something idealistic with America. I think many Americans, maybe because of recent years, underestimate the extent to which the word 'America,' until very recently, meant to people abroad hope, change, innovation and decency.... I think it's coming back. Brzezinski said he thought Europeans associate the idealism of the past with Carter.

"Then I think what comes across is that he is a nice guy. It also comes across that he is bright," Brzezinski said.

Carter journeyed to Europe primarily to get acquainted with fellow heads of government of major Western nations and Japan, and to negotiate with them on both economic and political issues.

He spent much of Tuesday flying from London, site of varied summit conclaves, to Geneva to meet with Syrian President Hafez Assad, who insisted on seeing Carter on neutral ground.

Brzezinski spent much of the time talking of his boss in moralistic terms, recounting this story about Carter and French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing:

"Leaving the summit, all of the chief executives present were in a line, and the staff on the side — cooks, butlers and so forth. And the President stood there, and Giscard stood there and ... everybody else stood there, and the President sort of walked over and started shaking hands with all of them (cooks, butlers, etc.), one by one. Smiling, he shook hands down the line.

"Everybody (the other heads of state) stood very stiffly. They sort of looked at each other. Finally, Giscard decided to follow, and did the same routine.

"It was a difficult choice whether to follow or not to follow. But the point is, he did."

In his NATO address in London, Carter talked about increasing NATO's military power. He said the threat to NATO "has grown steadily in recent years."

Carter said the Warsaw Pact countries are maintaining forces that have an offensive posture, maintaining a strength beyond that needed simply for defensive purposes.

The King of France, Louis Philippe, once was kicked out of a tavern in Coshocton when he complained about the accommodations and the leathery bear meat stew to the proprietor, a trapper known as Uncle Charlie. That was during Louis's tour of the West around 1790. Years later when Louis was crowned king, he liked to relate the incident to American diplomats.—AP

A check for $1,000 was presented to the Fayette County Life Squad Tuesday night by the Washington C.H. Lions Club.

The Lions Club's board of directors actually approved the $1,000 donation last month, but the board stipulated that the check would not be presented until proceeds from the variety show had been deposited.

The check was presented by Jesse Persinger, president of the Washington C.H. Lions Club, to John Lachat, co-coordinator of the life squad, before the club's regular semi-monthly dinner meeting Tuesday night in the Washington Country Club.

The Lions Club fund-raising activities primarily support sightsaving projects for needy Fayette County residents. However, the club also supports worthwhile community projects.

The $1,000 contribution will be used by the life squad toward the purchase of new radio equipment for the squad headquarters at 224 N. Main St., and for the organization's emergency vehicle. The life squad has ordered $7,000 worth of new radio equipment. Delivery of the sophisticated equipment is expected later this month or in June.

The new equipment will provide a direct communications link between the life squad vehicle and the Fayette County Memorial Hospital emergency room, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department and the life squad headquarters.

With the $1,000 donation, the Lions Club became one of the largest single contributors to the organization. Armco Steel Corp. employees donated $1,100 as part of their annual Founder's Day activities last month and the Washington C.H. Rotary Club contributed $1,000 earlier this year.

A video tape of the Lions Club's annual variety show was viewed by the 76 members attending Tuesday's meeting.

The show was taped by Clyde Cramer, a Washington C.H. Middle School teacher.

IN OTHER matters, the club: —Accepted Dr. John Heiby, a Washington C.H. optometrist, as a new member; —Received a report from assistant treasurer Allen Willoughby that variety show proceeds will exceed $2,500;

—Approved a $500 contribution to the Washington C.H. Lioness Club for its assistance in the variety show; and —Approved payment of three eye cases totaling $132.

Business news

Jeff man expands business

Ten years ago, Doug Cornell began repairing push lawn mowers. Now, the 22-year-old Fayette County businessman has branched out.

This weekend, he will hold the grand opening of his Cornell Lawn and Garden Center located at 20 S. Main St. in Jeffersonville. Although Cornell opened the business several weeks ago, this Friday and Saturday have been the dates set for an "open house."

Cornell claims he has one of the largest inventories of small engine parts in Fayette County. Besides parts, the new lawn and garden store has a large stock of lawn mowers, wood burning stoves, and garden tractors. The store also sells bulk twine for macrame products, water pumps, and chain saw chains.

Cornell or one of his three employees will repair lawnmowers and other small machinery. In fact, they will make service calls to area residents in distress.

Before opening his own business, Cornell worked as a salesman for the Krieger Equipment Co. The Madison Plains High School graduate is single and has vocational-agriculture training.

He says he is pretty well known by area farmers who have been dropping by his new store to pass the time of day.

The lawn and garden center is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. and on Saturdays from 8 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Annexation bid fought

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — A U.S. District Court judge Tuesday issued a temporary restraining order blocking the City of Dayton's attempt to annex Wright-Patterson Air Force Base.

Judge Carl B. Rubin signed the order sought by the U.S. Attorney's office and the Air Force, and ordered representatives of both sides to meet with him next week.

The federal government had filed a complaint against Dayton City Commissioners, charging annexation of the base would have "direct, substantial and adverse effects on the performance of various national defense missions."

The judge had ruled last week that a state law prohibiting annexation of a federal facility without federal approval does apply to Wright-Patterson.

The 8,193-acre base employs more than 24,000 persons.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sissy Jupe. Thomas Gradgrind. Josiah Bounderby. Mrs. Sparsit. You'd be right in guessing only Charles Dickens could create such wonderfully distinctive names.
They're in "Hard Times," his 1854 novel about life, love, poverty, pedantry, the union movement and more in the grimy, smoke-befouled mill city called Coketown during England's Industrial Revolution.
Both the characters and his broad, richly textured story will be on public TV in most areas (check local listings) when the book's four-part, made-in-England dramatization starts tonight.
It's good viewing, though I must say that the dialogue in the version I saw occasionally was hard to follow. It seemed either the audio track had flaws or the actors were lapsing into High Welsh.
But take a look, anyway, at "Hard Times," which opens with the arrival of a circus in Coketown, followed by a look at Sissy Jupe (Michelle Dibnah), a circus waif whose father abandoned her.

She's been left in the school run by Gradgrind (Patrick Allen), a humane but stern educator who discourages the uses of imagination and encourages the acquisition and regurgitation of "facts."
"Facts alone are wanted in life," he tells his young charges. "Plant nothing else, and root out everything else."
In time, we meet his teen-aged off-springs, Louisa and Tom (Jacqueline Tong and Richard Wren), and his close friend, Bounderby, an industrialist-banker who started dirt-poor and came out filthy rich.
He's superbly played by Timothy West, who fully captures Dickens' description of Bounderby as "a man who could never sufficiently vaunt himself a self-made man ... a man who was the bully of humility."
Keep an eye out, also, for the fine portrayal by Harry Markham of Mr. Sleary, the hoarse-voiced, brandy-tipping circus man to whom Gradgrind and Bounderby come to ask about the homeless Jupe girl.
Speaking in defense of his gaudy trade to the educator, who totally disapproves of frivolity, he reminds him: "People must be amused, Squire. They can't always be workin' or learnin'."
"Make the best of us, Squire, not the worse."
This "Hard Times" chapter, which also includes a subplot about a hard-working mill hand burdened by a drunken hag of a wife, will be a difficult show for veterans unfamiliar with the book.
Lesser characters, when they first appear, aren't clearly defined in this Granda Television effort. You may mutter, "Now, who's that?"
However, in addition to superbly recreating the book's Victorian setting, director John Irvin displays an unerring eye for detail as he recaptures the character descriptions set down by Dickens.

Drum music not soothing

ORADELL, N.J. (AP) — One of the most intricate maneuvers the Dynamics Junior Drum & Bugle Corps performs this year may be staying out of jail.
Members of the teen-age corps are to appear in municipal court May 19 to answer charges of making unnecessary noise and disturbing the peace. The offense is punishable by up to 90 days in jail.

"It's hell," says Edward Michael, an unhappy neighbor of the building where the corps practices. "A drum and bugle corps is very nice at a parade, but not next to your house."

Michael signed the complaint.

Nixon: Brezhnev steady friend

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard Nixon sets out in his second television interview to size up Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev as a steady and firm partner in creating a detente policy that guided relations between the two superpowers.

Nixon, sources said, credits Brezhnev with being less volatile and less of a risk than his predecessor, the late Nikita Khrushchev, who led the Soviet Union away from the harsh regimen of Josef Stalin.

The second program with television personality David Frost will be shown over a makeshift network of 155 stations Thursday night. The first show last week, dealing solely with the Watergate scandal that forced Nixon to resign in 1974, attracted some 45 million viewers.

While lacking the emotional impact of Watergate, the second Nixon show was thought sufficiently attractive to viewers to cause President Carter to alter plans for a news conference report on his first overseas trip.

Surveying his foreign policy over 5½ years, Nixon will stress that he — not Henry A. Kissinger or any other subordinate — was responsible for these major decisions:

—The attempted accommodation with the Russians;

—The reversal of a quarter-century of ignoring Communist China;

—The military rescue operation for Israel during the 1973 Six-Day War and the engineering of negotiated settlements between the Jewish state and its Arab neighbors.

Even in advance of the broadcast, Kissinger's aides said the former Secretary of State would have no comment on Nixon's description of the conduct of American foreign policy.

In the interview, the sources said, Kissinger is described as having warned that U.S. actions in Cambodia could have grave domestic risks. But Nixon is quoted as saying that once the decision was made in 1969 to secretly bomb Cambodia, Kissinger fully supported it.

Later, after student protests at Kent State and other campuses, Kissinger is said by Nixon to have had some second thoughts about the Cambodian operations and to have wanted them cut short.

But Nixon, the sources said, took the position that dissent was a natural consequence and it was his decision to continue operations in Cambodia until 1973.

This theme is first touched on during the interview to be shown Thursday and is further developed through the remaining two programs in succeeding weeks.

White House press secretary Jody Powell, with the presidential party in Europe, had announced on Tuesday that Carter would hold a news conference at 7:30 p.m. EDT Thursday.

Frost contacted Carter television adviser Barry Jagoda and informed him the Nixon show is scheduled at the same time. The presidential news conference then was reset for 2:30 p.m. Thursday but not, according to a Frost associate, because the television interviewer asked.

"David made no request whatsoever and I would imagine he would have regarded it as presumptuous to make a request of that nature," said a Frost associate.

Traffic Court

Judge John P. Case found Timothy L. Manning, 26, Columbus, guilty of driving without a valid operator's license following a trial in Washington C.H. Municipal Court Tuesday.

Manning was fined $75 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in jail. However, Judge Case suspended the jail sentence provided Manning does not violate any Ohio traffic laws for one year.

Herman Slone, 48, Sabina, was fined $25 and costs for a speeding charge, Tuesday.

Debra A. Hitchens, 19, Chillicothe, and Mary K. Scott, 35, of 1507 Ohio 41-S, each signed $35 waivers for speeding.

Steel mill opposed

CONNEAUT, Ohio (AP) — Local opponents to a proposed $3.5 billion steel mill claim the mill would destroy the rural charm of their Lake Erie town.

Conneaut is considered the front-runner for a new steel mill to be built by U.S. Steel. The nation's largest steelmaker is studying federal and state environmental requirements.

Despite the economic and employment advantages from such a mill, it is opposed by Concerned Citizens of Conneaut and West Springfield, the first organization in the area to take such a stand. West Springfield is in Pennsylvania, three miles east of Conneaut.

"I came to Conneaut from Baltimore because I didn't like the big city," said Richard D. Delaney, a group member. "I prefer the small-town life-style, and if that steel mill comes here, we are going to lose that."

"Besides, I don't like the idea of blast furnaces and coke ovens three miles from my house," he added.

Teays Valley latest victim

Trace keeps winning ways

The Miami Trace girls track team kept up its winning ways last night with another easy win. This time, the victims were Teays Valley and the score was 72-38.

Laura Bailey had a big scoring day for the Panthers. She won the 80-yard low hurdles in a time of 12.9 seconds. She took first in the 440-yard run, beating teammate Gail Camstra by just 0.4 seconds and was a member of the winning mile relay team for three first places. She also placed second in the high jump with a leap of four feet, six inches.

Cherri Hixon won the shot put with a new school record. She heaved the shot 34 feet, six inches to win the event by nine inches. Patty Ulloa was third.

Camstra and Kathy Warnock were second and third in the discus behind the winning toss of 89 feet, eight inches.

Teresa Dean finished third behind Bailey in the high jump with a jump of four feet, two inches.

Vicki Bennett, beginning to find her mark in the long jump, finished just one-half inch from first place in the event with a leap of 15 feet, three inches. Jenny McCane was third.

Toni Smith won the 100-yard dash in a time of 12.30. McCane tied for second at 12.35 seconds. Tammi Arnold, Trace's usual 100 runner, was sidelined with an illness.

Cassandra Delay had no trouble with her two events. She captured the mile run easily in a time of 5:37.0 and took home the 880 run in a time of 2:43.3.

The other win came to Bennett in the 220-yard dash as she ran her personal best at home with a 28.1 time.

The 880-yard relay team burned up the track with a time of 2:00.4. The team members are Dianna Rodgers, Linda Merritt, Nancy Eltzroth and Dean.

Pirates sweep doubleheader

Atlanta goes down for 17th

By ALEX SACHARE AP Sports Writer

Ted Turner cut short a sailing vacation to see what was wrong with his Atlanta Braves, and he got an eyeful.

The yachtman and club owner, seated behind the Atlanta dugout in Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium Tuesday night, watched his team's losing streak grow to 16 games as the Pirates swept a two-night doubleheader 3-0 and 2-1. In 18 innings, the Braves managed only one run on 11 hits, 10 of them singles.

"Troubles are what bring out the best in people," Turner said philosophically. "I think in the long run this will bring out the best in us."

"I'm just going to hang tough. I'm 38 years old, and I probably won't die for another 30 years or so — although this is probably shortening my life a little."

In other National League games, the Chicago Cubs blasted the Houston Astros 11-5, the Cincinnati Reds edged the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1, the Philadelphia Phillies blanked the San Francisco Giants 3-0 and the Montreal Expos beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-2. San Diego at New York was postponed because of cold weather.

The Pirates, taking advantage of Atlanta's woes in extending their winning streak to 10 games, longest in the major leagues this season, had no mercy for their troubled colleagues.

"When they leave town I hope they have success, but when they're on the other side of the field you feel nothing at all for them," said Pirate pitcher Jim Rooker, who combined with Kent Tekulve for a six-hitter in the opener.

Dave Parker, whose two-run triple was the winning blow in the second game, agreed. "I don't think you can afford to show mercy in this game," said Parker, who had four hits in the twinbill, raising his consecutive game hitting streak to 21 and his batting average to .427 — both major league highs.

Run-scoring singles by Frank

Taveras, Rennie Stennett and Phil Garner produced the Pirates' runs in the first game. In the second, Parker's two-run triple in the third inning was all that was needed.

Cubs 11, Astros 5

The Cubs' victory was their sixth in a row, their longest streak in two years. George Mitterwald and Steve Ontiveros drove in four runs apiece for Chicago. Mitterwald's three-run homer capped a five-run fourth inning that broke open the game.

Reds 2, Cards 1

Reds starter Gary Nolan, making his first appearance of the season after being sidelined since spring training by a foot infection and mononucleosis, allowed just three hits in five innings before suffering muscle cramps. Pedro Borbon and Rawly Eastwick completed the victory.

Phillies 3, Giants 0

Steve Carlton blanked the Giants on four hits and Greg Luzinski and Mike Schmidt hit homers for Philadelphia, which reached the .500 mark at 12-12.

Expos 4, Dodgers 3

Warren Cromartie drove in the winning run in the seventh inning when his long drive bounced off the centerfield wall, hit Dodgers outfielder Rick Monday in the forehead, then bounced over the wall. Cromartie was awarded a ground rule double, scoring Dave Cash from second with the run that snapped a 3-3 tie.

ANY SCOUTS AROUND? — Jeff Elliott lets fly with a pitch in last night's sectional tournament game against Waverly. Elliott pitched another one-hitter, going six in-

Lions ride to sectional finals berth on Elliott's arm

The Washington C.H. Blue Lion baseball team rode to another victory on the arm of junior Jeff Elliott last night, beating Waverly for a sectional final berth, 4-0.

Elliott, a hard-throwing southpaw, stymied the Tiger batters, giving up just one hit in six innings of work.

He struck out eight and walked just two while his teammates were scoring four times.

Bret Shaw came out of the bullpen once again to pitch one strong inning of relief and record the save. After an inning-opening error, Shaw got the Tigers one-two-three.

Bob Fyffe took the loss for Waverly. He pitched all six innings, giving up four runs on just three hits. He struck out three and also walked three.

The Lions' base stealing got them their first run of the game. Catcher Jeff DeWeese walked and then stole second. He went to third on a ground out and then stole home to give the Lions a 1-0 lead in the second inning.

While Elliott made short work of Waverly, his teammates gave him another run in the third. Mark Burke doubled and took third when the outfielder bobbled the ball. After Jeff Estep walked, Scott Johnson lifted a fly ball to the outfield that scored Burke.

The Lions got a pair of insurance runs in the sixth inning to make the score 4-0. Estep walked again and DeWeese doubled him home. After Elliott hit a slow roller that moved DeWeese to third, Dee Hart Foster delivered a sacrifice fly that got the Lion backstop home with the fourth run.

In the seventh, Lions coach Paul Ondrus elected to remove Elliott in favor of Shaw and the Lion reliever preserved the win.

The Lions will play in the sectional finals today at Hillsboro at 4 p.m. The Indians are scheduled to have Gary Larimer on the mound.

The Lions will hopefully have Elliott on the mound again for the first few innings. If Elliott's arm does not respond, Foster will get the starting nod.

Bobick or Norton heir to the throne?

NEW YORK (AP) — A man's heart often beats to the tune of his pocket-book, and so it is little wonder that Smokin' Joe Frazier will be silently pulling for Duane Bobick against Ken Norton in their 12-round heavyweight fight tonight at Madison Square Garden.

"I got no favorite," the tough, onetime Philadelphia slaughterhouse butcher said, letting a puff of cigar smoke drift lazily toward the ceiling.

"Ken Norton, he's my friend, maybe the closest friend I ever had in boxing. Duane Bobick, he's a commodity, a part of the corporation. Both are fine gentlemen. Of course, I am torn between the two."

"But here's how I look at it. Norton has had his day. He's fought the best, whipped Muhammad Ali three times, to my way of thinking. Now it's time for the young kids to move in. Bobick could be the new wave of boxing."

Such is Smokin' Joe's rationale. Frazier won the heavyweight crown on Feb. 16, 1970. He held off the comeback Muhammad Ali in 1971 but fell in two rounds before George Foreman's thunderclap fists in Kingston, Jamaica, Jan. 22, 1973.

Most ring observers see tonight's battle as a stepping stone to Ali's championship mantle. Big, brutal George Foreman has become an evangelist. Ali is fat and 35, still sassy and smart. But how much longer can he prevail?

Either Norton or Bobick would add a touch of class to the title, even if unable to generate Ali's excitement and popularity.

Cincy breaks five game drought

Reds settle back into distant second

ST. LOUIS (AP) — It may not have been a flamboyant way to break out of a slump, but the Cincinnati Reds weren't quarreling.

The beleaguered world champions eclipsed the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1 to snap a five-game drought Tuesday night and in the process retained second place in the National League West.

"That's the first time we've gained a game on the Dodgers in a month," said Reds Manager Sparky Anderson, whose club remained a distant 10½ games behind division-leading Los Angeles.

"Maybe it's a start," Anderson mused. "We've had everything in the world happen to us. We're just not hitting with men on base."

Cincinnati, which stranded a dozen runners, used Pete Rose's single in the second and Ed Armbrister's sacrifice fly in the fourth to produce its only runs off the Cards' Pete Falcone, 1-4.

But offsetting the tepid attack were five strong innings contributed by control artist Gary Nolan, 1-0, in his first pitching start of the season.

"Two weeks ago I was sicker than sick," said Nolan, who had been shelved since spring training by a foot infection and a bout with mononucleosis.

"I'd had to have been happy after the first inning if I hadn't done anything else because I was able to throw strikes," Nolan added.

Mixing speeds like the Nolan of old, the Reds right-hander restricted St. Louis to three singles on his 49 pitches before departing in the sixth inning with leg cramps.

"The emotional strain, pushing off the mound and getting wrapped up in everything — I think they all took their effect," he said. "I had no way of knowing going into the game how I'd feel."

After Nolan departed, Pedro Borbon surrendered the Cards' lone run in the seventh and was greeted afterward by Tony Scott's single leading off the ninth.

Scott, however, was thrown out attempting to stretch his hit and Rawly

Eastwick mopped up for his fifth save by inducing Ted Simmons to hit into a game-ending double play after Borbon walked Hector Cruz.

Nolan, asked if his return could provide the necessary psychological boost for a beleaguered Cincinnati pitching staff, acknowledged that "I hope so."

"After being out with the run of problems I've had I knew I could throw strikes but I didn't know how effective I would be," he said.

"I was just hopeful of keeping us in the game."

MT crushes Teays Valley

The Miami Trace softball team, like their Fayette County counterparts, aired out their bats with a 28-6 shelling of Teays Valley.

Eleven runs in the first inning were all the Panthers needed as winning pitcher Shelly Blouse was allowing only six runs through her seven innings of work.

Eight Teays Valley errors also helped the Panther cause.

Kathy Hanners cracked a home run in her only official time at bat while Paula Rumer was 2-for-3 with a triple. Tammy Matson also was perfect with a 3-for-3 day.

Carol Frisbie and Debbie Thompson each smacked a pair of hits in three times to the plate.

The Panthers, now 5-2 on the year, will wind up their season either tomorrow or Friday against Hillsboro.

Swedes Urged To Vacation In Homeland

By HANS NORRBOOM
STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Swedes are being tempted to switch from lazy Mediterranean beaches to hikes and canoeing-cruising in the northern Swedish wilderness.

Under the motto "Open Sweden," tourist authorities are waging a campaign to promote the vacation possibilities of virgin areas, which cover a substantial part of this Nordic country.

While reserving a great portion of nature tours for foreigners, one of the campaign's chief aims is to decrease a negative tourist net of some $700 million last year.

That is how much Swedish tourists spent abroad with foreigners' expenses in Sweden deducted.

To reverse that trend, travel agencies and county tourist associations have played on the dream of many Swedes to return to nature by organizing hiking, canoeing, hunting and fishing expeditions at reasonable costs, tailored to fit different physical abilities.

These group travels are fully developed arrangements with guides, meals and provisions, accommodation and excursions. Costs range from $190 to $130 a week per person, including train ticket.

Still, the average Swedish tourist spends more time abroad than he does domestically. In 1975 Swedes spent 20 million nights abroad, but only 12 million in their own country as tourists, the Swedish Tourist Council says.

The council, the highest tourist authority in Sweden, decided to reduce this discrepancy, aware that 30 per cent of the Swede's private budget is allocated to travel and leisure.

The Swedish Forest Service, an agency responsible for all state-owned woods, has founded a travel agency of its own, Swedish Recreation. In cooperation with the tourist council it can supply 96 different canoeing expeditions, 38 mountain hikes, 60 fishing vacations and 400 cottages for rent.

In meeting tourist standards more common on the European continent, market director Lars Gunnar Svensson hopes to be able to sell a substantial part of wilderness group tours to foreign tourists also.

"Our aim is to allocate 60 to 70 per cent of our capacity to Swedes, with the remainder going to foreign tourists," Svensson said.

Swedish Recreation's main competitor in the field is the government-subsidized Swedish Tourist Association, administering some 270 hikers' hostels, 12 mountain hotels and 40 mountain cottages.

Vacation possibilities include canoeing on the famous Sjaunja Lake, hunting for elk, or more sophisticated activities like fishing trips to remote lakes by helicopter or sightseeing in the mountains by snow scooter.

SUPERMAN
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Even Superman gets older. Kirk Alyn, who played Superman in 30 movie serials in the late 1940s and early 1950s is now 66 years old and drawing Social Security checks.

"But I feel like I'm 39," the actor said. "And I wish they would stop offering me the same roles."

For years after producers stopped making the serials, Alyn found it difficult to get acting parts. Movie-makers felt the public wouldn't believe him as anybody other than Superman.

"Now I get offers, but it's only for detective roles," he lamented. "I just turned down two such parts. For one thing, I can't get used to the language they want you to use today."

PIC-A-FAY 4-H

Future activities were the main points President Twila Dennis brought up when Pic-A-Fay 4-H Club met May 9th in the home of Mrs. Harold Thompson. Rita Minshall led the pledges.

Activities to remember: May 22 - attend Grace United Methodist Church together at 10:15; May 23 - begin pop bottle drive for Camp Clifton Improvement Fund at 5:00 p.m. from Mrs. Paul Minshall's; May 24 - 2 dozen cookies delivered to Terry Helsel's house for Blood Bank's use the following day; June 11 - Mother Daughter Luncheon; June 25 - final day to let leaders know if make up judging of July 8 is needed; and July 20 & 21 - clothing and special interest judging.

Four of our Junior Leaders have been chosen for trips. Twila Dennis and Jane Kearney will be attending the Citizenship Short Course in Washington D.C., Karen Miller will be attending Ohio Club Congress; and Cindy Baird will go to State Junior Leadership Camp.

Four of our members have participated in community service projects such as the Walk-A-Thon and Bike-A-Thons. Cindy Thompson, Tami Deskins, Linda Miller and Kathy Kirk collected a total of $109.00 for those projects.

Junior Health Leader Julie Baird gave a report on "Poisons", "Boating Safety" and "Water Safety" were two reports given by Junior Safety Leader Cindy Thompson.

Angela Johnson planned a party as part of her 4-H project and served as hostess for refreshments. She was assisted by Diana Hughes.

The next meeting will be May 23 in the home of Mrs. Paul Minshall with Cindy and Julie Baird serving refreshments.

AMBITIOUS FARMERS 4-H

The meeting of the Ambitious Farmers SW 4-H Club was called to order by Rusty Coe, and Darren Hughes led the 4-H Pledge and Jeff Hughes the Pledge of Allegiance.

Members responded to roll call and reports were made. Jon Long presented the safety report and Steve Coe the health report. David Garringer and Stacey Stockwell were appointed to give the next ones.

We discussed going to Landmark and having a tour around the building on June 16. We gave out the programs, talked about Kings Island, and which date would be the best to go there.

Following the meeting, we held an auction among members to make money for the Camp Clifton Fund. The next meeting will be May 17 at 8 p.m. in the home of David Garringer. Sharon Jenkins, reporter

Hayakawa likes job

WASHINGTON (AP) — "You've never seen an experience which has the profound ego gratification as that which comes from being a United States senator."

The only senator likely to describe his job that way is S.I. Hayakawa.

For that reason, more and more people in Washington are enjoying listening to the California Republican who usually sounds more like a scholarly former professor of semantics — which he is — than like a politician.

Try these observations from a recent Hayakawa speech on "the strange fate that has overcome me of having landed in the United States Senate

"Maybe being President of the United States is a step up, but right now I'm just floating on air. I mean, everywhere you turn, people say, 'yes, sir, Senator,' 'right away, Senator,' 'yes, indeed, Senator'

"And then you get into the Senate, which is an extraordinary institution with a wonderful chamber where they carry on their debates People keep saying what a great guy you are.

"And if you don't watch out you begin to believe all this stuff. Then you're like that senator who said, when he first came to the Senate, 'How did poor little old me get in among these 99 distinguished people?' And then, after six months in the Senate, he says, 'What are these 99 jerks doing here?'"

Preliminary hearing set Friday

Bond set for assault suspect

Bond was set at $5,000 for Thomas H. Bookwalter, who has been charged with felonious assault following an incident Monday in a Washington C.H. alley.

Bookwalter, 46, of 431 Third St., allegedly attempted to run down a neighbor with his automobile. The neighbor, Dane Blamer, 30, of 427 Third St., was not injured. He was reportedly mowing his lawn at the time of the incident, and Bookwalter's car struck the lawn mower, narrowly missing Blamer.

Bookwalter was arrested by Washington C.H. police officers shortly after the incident. An initial hearing was held Tuesday morning in Washington C.H. Municipal Court where bond was set by Judge John P. Case. A preliminary hearing at which Judge Case will decide whether or not to bind Bookwalter over to a Fayette County grand jury on the felony charge has been set for 2 p.m. Friday.

Bookwalter reportedly pulled his car from Vine Street into an alley behind the Blamer residence. He claims the steering wheel of his car was stuck causing his auto to run onto the yard narrowly missing Blamer.

Bookwalter reportedly did not stop the vehicle after the incident to check the damages and did not report the incident to police officers.

A 33-year-old Washington C.H. man was found guilty in Municipal Court Tuesday on charges of assaulting a police officer, resisting arrest, and disorderly conduct.

Two dog bite reports probed

Two persons required treatment at the Fayette County emergency room Tuesday after suffering dog bites.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported that Steve Dudley of the Hunt's Trailer Court in Bloomingburg suffered a facial wound which required six stitches after a dog, owned by Robert Garrison of Bloomingburg, bit him.

Dudley reported that he was visiting the Garrisons' mobile home at the time of the incident.

Five-year-old Jessie Bolen of Bloomingburg was bitten on the right arm while he was playing with a dog owned by James Smith of Jeffersonville. Young Bolen was reportedly playing with the dog in the owner's yard at the time of the incident.

Both victims were treated and released from the hospital.

Thomas E. Wheeler, 1139 Gregg St., was fined a total of $250 and received two 10-day jail sentences on the charges. Judge Case suspended $50 of a disorderly conduct charge on the condition that Wheeler does not frequent certain area taverns for a one-year period.

Wheeler was arrested Monday night at his home by Police Specialist Larry Hott and Patrolman Steve Jennings on a private warrant for disorderly conduct. Wheeler refused to accompany the officers to police headquarters and struck Hott in the chest. Hott and Jennings physically subdued Wheeler and took him into custody.

Also in Municipal Court proceedings, Cary H. Stolzenberg of 1015 Pearl St., was found guilty of disorderly conduct and fined $100. However, Judge Case suspended $50 of the fine provided restitution is made for damages incurred during an incident early Saturday morning at 804 Maple St.

Rick Penwell, 22, of 615 Columbus Ave., signed a $65 waiver in Municipal Court on a disorderly conduct charge.

Jerry L. Brady, 22, of 603 E. Elm St., was fined $20 and costs by Judge Case for fishing without a valid license.

Three other mishaps probed

County girl injured in motorcycle crash

A 16-year-old Fayette County girl suffered a fractured left arm when the motorcycle she was riding went out of control Tuesday morning.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department identified the girl as Valerie Sue Brown, 9072 Stafford Road. She was treated and released from Fayette County Memorial Hospital following the 11:40 a.m. accident.

Miss Brown was reportedly sitting on the motorcycle at her residence when she accidentally accelerated with the hand controls. The motorcycle jumped forward, struck a bush, and then hit a ditch.

Three minor traffic mishaps were investigated by area law enforcement officers Tuesday. There were no other injuries.

POLICE

TUESDAY — Tammy Harper, 1052 Country Club Court, reported that she had parked a car outside her residence late Monday and when she returned several hours later she discovered it had been struck by another vehicle.

The other vehicle, which left the scene, was reportedly pulling into or backing from a parking space at the time of the mishap. The damaged car was being leased from Bill Marine Ford Inc. of Wilmington.

1:13 p.m. — Eric G. Halverson, 28, of 222 Ogle St., was cited for a traffic light violation after his car collided with an auto driven by Phillip C. Steiner, 20, Jeffersonville. Halverson reportedly entered the intersection of Delaware Street and Columbus Avenue on a red light and his car was struck by the Steiner auto.

SHERIFF

TUESDAY, 6:20 p.m. — A car driven by Su Ching Lin, 30, of 537 Albin Ave., collided with a pickup truck driven by Larry J. Leeth, 55, of 1214 Washington Ave., on a private parking lot at the intersection of U.S. 22 and the Staunton-Jasper Road. The Lin auto reportedly pulled into the lot while Leeth was backing his truck from a parking space. No citations were given immediately following the mishap.

Ohio retail sales increase in March

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's retail sales increased by 1 per cent in March over the previous month after seasonal adjustments, according to Ohio State University's center for business and economic research.

Before adjustment sales March sales showed a 17 per cent increase. The center said March sales were up 9 per cent over the same month in 1976.

First quarter sales for 1977 were 7 per cent higher than the same period last year.

The center surveys 25 retailing categories. Of these only filling stations, down 12 per cent; glass and wallpaper stores, down 3 per cent; and department stores and shoe stores, both down 1 per cent, showed declines in the March-to-March comparison.

Fuel dealer sales were up 96 per cent in March over the same month one-year ago while sales for heating, plumbing and electrical supply store increased 33 per cent and drug stores were up 38 per cent.

Cumulative sales for the first quarter of the year showed almost half (12) of the 25 categories reporting lower sales than for the same period last year.

Regionally all 11 major city-county areas, and the Ohio areas outside those cities surveyed, showed sales increases in March as compared with the same month of 1976. Only the Canton area showed a fractional decline in the first three months of the year compared with the first quarter of 1976.

March increases from the previous March, followed in parentheses by increases for the first three months of the year as compared with 1976 levels, were:

Akron, up 9 per cent (up 2 per cent); Canton, up 6 per cent (down fractionally); Chillicothe, up 17 per cent (up 3 per cent); Cincinnati, up 4 per cent (up 2 per cent); Cleveland, up 10 per cent (up 4 per cent); Columbus, up 8 per cent (up 4 per cent); Dayton, up 5 per cent (up fractionally); Hamilton-

Middletown, up 9 per cent (up 3 per cent); Portsmouth, up 12 per cent (up 7 per cent); Toledo, up 7 per cent (up 3 per cent); Youngstown, up 12 per cent (up 3 per cent); all other Ohio areas, up 10 (up 7).

Vance sets briefing for Allon

LONDON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance meets today with Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon to tell him about President Carter's recent talks with Arab leaders.

"We are briefing him on the latest developments, and he is briefing us on his concerns about what he has been reading in the papers," a U.S. official said.

Vance in London for the NATO meeting at which President Carter spoke Tuesday, reminded reporters he met with Allon during his trip to the Middle East in February, and Carter since then has talked with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, Jordan's King Hussein and President Hafez Assad of Syria.

"Therefore, I thought it was time for us to meet again, where I could review with him what has come out of the conversations with the Arab leaders and get the latest thinking of the Israelis on the Middle East question," Vance said.

Israeli officials in Tel Aviv expressed uneasiness over remarks Carter made following his 3½-hour conversation with Assad Monday in Geneva.

Carter told reporters that all the Middle Eastern leaders with whom he has conferred — including Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin — agreed to a general concept of peacekeeping forces in demilitarized zones along Israel's borders. The president also said it was possible that a final peace agreement would contain provisions for Israeli defense or observation posts beyond the borders.
